Admissions received from 1998 to 2001, from the student body of 8,660. Just a quick reminder about this! [Traumatic ventricular septal rupture and left ventricular tamponade. Report of a case and review of the literature]. The authors describe a case of traumatic ventricular septal rupture occurring in a 17 year-old girl who presented with a closed head injury and an episode of fainting. Early after the accident a transthoracic echocardiogram showed a ventricular septal rupture into the left ventricle and mild left ventricular dysfunction. Because of her unstable condition, the patient was transferred for urgent surgery under cardiopulmonary bypass. Through a right anterolateral thoracotomy the pericardium was opened, and through the left atriotomy the tear in the septum was identified and repaired. The postoperative course was uneventful. The patient was discharged on the seventh postoperative day and is clinically stable, at the latest follow-up, 8 months after the operation.
